

CARA

The problem with the way you perceive the world is that you look around with a cloud of judgement trailing over those who you deem lesser than you. You stare out into the sea of people and all you see is "less. Less intelligent, less beautiful, less loving, less dedicated; Less. You entitled piece of shit. Who made you king of the world? Who coined you as 'better'? In what goddamn world are you the hero of this story? Take a step back and actually LOOK at the world. It's so beautiful. And you.. well you're just an ugly mark. And when you die, the world will be just a little prettier.